

Something Banana

In the tropics there are ants smaller than this dot.
They appear on surfaces like DNA and clear
residues of fruit smear forming chains of command in which each ant
pauses to pass a molecule of something banana to the next.
their legs printing
molecules of banana

onto the surfaces
I'm not even sure
these surfaces are aware but if they are

these ants could be warmer than rain drops falling through night

